CODE OF CONDUCT

NAVSA is dedicated to advancing the field of Victorian studies through open, critically engaged, and challenging discussions at our annual conference. It seeks to promote an inclusive, diverse, and welcoming community. NAVSA is therefore committed to providing a safe, respectful, and harassment-free conference experience for everyone, regardless of sex, gender identity, and expression, sexual orientation, disability, race, ethnicity, physical appearance, body size, age, professional status, religion, or any other characteristic. We value your presence and constructive participation in our shared community. We thank you for your attention to the comfort, safety, and well-being of fellow NAVSA collaborators and attendees at NAVSA events. Members should be aware that they are bound by the codes of conduct in effect at their home institutions. The NAVSA code does not supersede these workplace codes but is intended to reinforce their message.

NAVSA's complete code of conduct statement can be found here: https://navsa.org/code-of-conduct.

If you need assistance, do not hesitate to contact the NAVSA President, Kate Flint, flint.kate@gmail.com, or Vice-President, Cannon Schmitt, cannon.schmitt@utoronto.ca.
SUSTAINABILITY STATEMENT

NAVSA is committed to responsible practices that reduce its carbon footprint. We adopt this position in response to our urgent climate crisis and the United Nations’ 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. We recognize that conference organizers all have different opportunities and limitations, and therefore we provide our organizers with a list of recommendations to consider in developing eco-friendly practices. Many of these practices have the added benefit of reducing our costs. We also offer suggestions that conference organizers can pass on to attendees as a statement within the conference programs. Further suggestions for addressing our environmental impact are always welcome.
